Our Hockey Organization

As an organization, we place a strong emphasis on teaching, correction, habit formation, and player advancement. While winning is valued, it is not our primary focus. Too often, a results-driven mindset leads coaches to make decisions that are detrimental to long-term development—such as shortening benches or limiting opportunities on special teams to only a few players.

This approach creates an environment of "haves and have-nots," dividing teams rather than uniting them. We firmly believe that a team is only as strong as its weakest player, and it is the responsibility of the coaching staff to elevate every individual.

When coaches commit to proper teaching and development:

- Success naturally follows
- Players develop confidence and a sense of value
- Teams become more cohesive
- Families feel positive about their experience

Most players will not remember their win-loss record from their youth. What they will remember are:

- Their coaches (positive or negative)
- Their teammates
- The feeling of improvement and accomplishment
- The habits and life lessons they developed

Players must be given opportunities to experience all aspects of the game. Development requires both success and failure.

Core Philosophy

- We prioritize player development over winning
- Focus on teaching, correcting, and building habits for all players
- Do not shorten the bench for the sake of winning
- Avoid creating “top vs. bottom” player groups
- Team success follows full roster development

Player Development

- Provide all players opportunities in all situations
- Early season: rotate players through PP/PK
- Later season: define units based on performance
- Expectation: Advance 2–3 players per team, per year
- Holding players back for team success is not acceptable.

Coaching Approach

- Keep ego out of decisions
- Stay consistent in all game situations
- Do not overplay top players outside key moments
- Success = player growth + team improvement over time

Skill Development

- Teach proper technique
- Correct consistently and immediately
- Reinforce through repetition

All coaches must support Player Development (PD) sessions.

Culture

PROMOTE:

- Team-first mindset
- Sportsmanship
- Respect on and off the ice
- All behavior reflects on the organization

LONG-TERM FOCUS:

- Reinforce daily improvement:
    - How did we get better today?
    - What did we do as a team to improve?
    - What did you do individually to improve?
- Teach:
    - Accountability
    - Leadership
    - Responsibility
    - Handling adversity
    - Character (doing the right thing always)
    - Respect for academics

EXPECTATIONS & DISCIPLINE:

- Set clear, realistic rules early
- Enforce consistently and fairly
- Focus on preparation, respect, and behavior

COMMUNICATION:

- Be honest, clear, and constructive
- Address issues early
- Include another coach/parent in player communications
- Ensure consistency between feedback and evaluations

PRACTICE STANDARDS:

- Every practice must have a purpose
- Focus on repetition, pace, and correction
- Use game-like drills and competition
- Maximize puck touches
- Must communicate practice plans ahead of practice

GAME MANAGEMENT:

- Head Coach:
  - Pre-game plan, lineups, accountability
  - In-game adjustments
- Assistant Coaches:
  - Manage shifts
  - Provide feedback
  - Support communication and bench environment

FINAL EXPECTATION:

- This is about player development, not the coach

Your success is measured by player advancement and team growth—not wins.

Assistant Coach Policy

- Approval Required: All assistant coaches must be approved before confirmation.
  - Process: Gather interest → Submit names to Lincoln, Jocelyn, or Steve → Vetted for approval or denial.
  - Purpose: Ensure assistants have the knowledge and ability to teach and correct players.
- Practice Staffing:
  - Maximum: 3 assistant coaches + 1 goaltender coach per practice
  - Head coach is responsible for managing assistants during practice
- Game Staffing:
  - Maximum: 3 coaches on the bench (Head Coach + 2 assistants)
  - Head coach may rotate assistants if more than two are approved

    - Conflict of interest rule: If an assistant coach is a parent, they coach the opposite position of their child (e.g., forwards coach if their child is a defenseman)
- Role Expectation:
    - Assistant coaches are the head coach's right hand—support teaching, correction, and team management
    - Be prepared based on the upcoming practice plan

Concussion Protocol

- Immediate Action: Any player showing signs of concussion (dizziness, headache, confusion, nausea, balance issues) must be removed from the ice immediately.
- Medical Clearance Required: Players cannot return to practice or games until cleared by a licensed medical professional.
- Reporting: Notify the organization and parents immediately when a concussion is suspected. Document the incident.
- Gradual Return: Follow a stepwise return-to-play protocol under medical supervision. Do not rush the player back.
- Return-to-Play Form: Players must have a medical doctor complete the official USA Hockey Return-to-Play form before returning to play. These forms MUST be held by the manager and submitted to Jean Rogers at jean.rogers@juniorhurricanes.org
- Education: All coaches must stay informed on concussion signs, management, and prevention strategies.
- Concussion Protocol Link: CJHHA Concussion Policy-Protocol

Goal: Ensure player safety and long-term health above all else.

Basic Disciplinary Process

- Immediate Action (First Offense): The coach will address the issue directly with the player and parent. The results of the meeting must be documented by email and should outline the reason/issue for the meeting, what was discussed, and the proposed outcome. The coach may issue a small suspension, place the player on probation, or simply feel confident the behavior will be corrected with no disciplinary action.

- Secondary Action (Second Offense): Coach must schedule a meeting with the player, parent, and Coach Director. The results of the meeting must be documented by email and should outline the reason/issue for the meeting, what was discussed, and the proposed outcome. The coach may issue a small suspension or apply disciplinary action, which is reasonable for the issue. The documentation email must also be sent to the Disciplinary Chair so they are aware this is a second violation by the same player.
- Third Offense: The incident must be documented by email and referred to the Disciplinary Committee.

Documenting player issues consistently and objectively is critical when escalation becomes necessary—especially in environments like youth sports where fairness, development, and accountability all matter.

First, documentation establishes a clear pattern of behavior. One isolated incident can often be addressed with a conversation, but repeated issues—whether related to conduct, attendance, attitude, or safety—require proof that the behavior is ongoing. Written records show that the concern isn't subjective or reactionary; it's based on a trackable history.

Second, it ensures fairness and consistency. When multiple players are involved across a team or program, documentation helps demonstrate that policies are being applied evenly. This protects against claims of favoritism or bias and reinforces that decisions are based on facts, not emotions or personal relationships.

Third, documentation supports progressive discipline. Escalation should follow a logical path (e.g., verbal warning → written warning → suspension → removal). Having records of each step shows that the player and family were given opportunities to correct the behavior and were aware of expectations along the way.

Fourth, it provides clarity in communication with families. When concerns are documented, conversations with parents become more productive and less confrontational. Instead of relying on memory, you can reference specific dates, incidents, and prior discussions, which helps keep the focus on improvement rather than disagreement.

Fifth, it protects the organization and staff. In the event a situation escalates to removal from a team or further disciplinary action, documentation serves as a safeguard. It demonstrates that decisions were thoughtful, justified, and aligned with established policies—reducing risk from complaints or disputes.

Finally, and just as important, documentation supports player development. Clear records help identify recurring challenges and allow coaches to provide targeted feedback. The goal isn't just discipline—it's helping the player learn, grow, and succeed within the team environment.

In short, documentation turns difficult situations into manageable, transparent processes. It ensures that when escalation is necessary, it is grounded in fairness, consistency, and a genuine effort to support both the player and the team.

CEP Certifications

All coaches can find their USAH Compliance Information in their USAH Portal

USA Hockey requires all head coaches and assistant coaches, including practice/on-ice coaches, will need a current year USA Hockey Number, current background screening, age specific module and completed SafeSport Training prior to taking the ice for the current season. The CAHA Affiliate registrar will not approve coaches on the T1 roster unless coach compliance items have been fulfilled.

- As per above, coaches must also complete online age-specific training modules specific to the level of play they are coaching, if they have not already taken that module. This requirement applies to all coaches at all levels, 1 through 5. Coaches may complete more than one age-specific module in any given season.
- All coaches must complete a current CEP Level (before 12/31 of the current year, if needed). Note: The CEP Clinics fill up quickly so register as soon as possible.
- All coaches must enter USA Hockey's Coaching Education Program at Level 1, and must continue their education with a coaching clinic each year until, at a minimum, they achieve Level 4. Coaches of only 8 and Under players should remain at Level 1 until such time as they are coaching any older age level of play.
- A coach may attend only one (1) certification clinic per year.

- Once Level 4 is achieved, coaches will need to complete 5 credit hours of continuing education within each subsequent three-year period [as outlined in Paragraph (c) below].
- Coaches with any expired certification will retain their previous certification levels, provided the certification can be verified. Coaches may re-enter the certification system at that previous level and be subject to the certification guidelines. Coaches must complete their next CEP Level before 12/31.
- All team locker room monitors, volunteers, and/or team drivers that will be in contact with the players (locker room, bench, or transportation), will need a current year USA Hockey Number, a current Background Screening, and completed SafeSport Training. Locker room monitors are required to be listed on the T1 and must be approved by Lincoln.

End of Season Exit Meeting

End of Season Exit meetings must be completed by Feb 28th.

End-of-season exit meetings are a required component of the player development process. These meetings are intended to provide players and families with clear, constructive feedback and guidance as they prepare for the upcoming season.

It is important to note that these meetings are evaluative and developmental in nature, not determinative. Coaches will use this time to:

Provide an honest assessment of the player's performance, development, and progression over the course of the season

Offer recommendations on areas of focus for off-season development

Advise on the appropriate level and team placement for the upcoming season, including guidance on where the player should expect to try out

Exit meetings are not a guarantee of placement on any specific team for the following season. Final roster decisions will continue to be made through the formal tryout process.

These meetings are designed to ensure transparency, alignment, and a clear development path for each player moving forward.

Coach/Season Evaluations

- Mid-Season – Due from parents by Dec 15
- Mid-Season – Summary due to coaches by Jan 31

Team Meetings

A CJHHA Standard team meeting template will be provided prior to your meeting.

You should have a pre-season meeting to review the following:

- Meeting for all the parents – discuss chain of command and communication methods
- Parents to meet the coaches
- Coaches to discuss their coaching philosophy and team rules
- Review of practice times and expectations
- Review of Tournament information
- Set disciplinary expectations and consequences

CJHHA Authority Limitations

From time to time, players will receive misconduct penalties either during regular games or at tournaments. It is important you understand what the limitations are when you feel your player has been penalized unfairly or you feel another team has roster issues.

Authority of On-Ice Officials

Under USA Hockey rules, on-ice officials have full and final authority over all penalties assessed during a game, including game misconducts. These decisions are judgment calls made by the officials at the time of the incident and are final once assessed.

No Appeal or Modification Process

USA Hockey does not provide an appeal process to overturn, reduce, or modify a game misconduct penalty. As outlined in the USA Hockey Playing Rules and Casebook:

- Penalties assessed by officials during play are not subject to protest or appeal.
- Neither teams, coaches, leagues, nor member organizations have the authority to change or rescind a game misconduct once it has been issued.

Role of the Organization

Our organization does not have the authority to:

- Overturn or amend a game misconduct
- Contact officials or leagues to request a change to a penalty
- Remove or lessen a suspension that results from a game misconduct

Our role is limited to:

- Ensuring suspensions are properly recorded and served in accordance with USA Hockey rules
- Providing rule clarification and education when requested
- Supporting coaches in reinforcing standards of conduct and sportsmanship

Coach Expectations

We ask all coaches to:

- Respect the authority of officials and their decisions at all times
- Avoid pursuing appeals or reversals that do not exist under USA Hockey rules
- Direct questions toward understanding the rule application, not disputing the call
- Use these situations as teaching moments for players regarding discipline, accountability, and respect for the game

While the Junior Canes govern and oversee roster compliance for our own teams, we do not have authority or enforcement power over the roster decisions, player usage, or administrative practices of other independent USA Hockey–affiliated organizations, including the Richmond Generals, who are registered through a different affiliate governing body.

Any concerns regarding another organization's roster eligibility, player identity, or GameSheet accuracy must be addressed through the appropriate governing channels.

For games played in tournaments, roster verification and enforcement fall under the responsibility of the tournament director in conjunction with USA Hockey and GameSheet procedures. For league play, those concerns must be directed to the league administrator, who has the authority to review rosters, investigate discrepancies, and take action if violations are confirmed.
